

The vast majority of those who grew up in Montana and residents who moved to Montana as adults view education funding seriously.

